

THE CITADEL

THE MILITARY COLLEGE OF SOUTH CAROLINA

The Citadel is a unique public institution with the mission of educating principled leaders through the South Carolina Corps of Cadets and College of Graduate and Professional Studies. Located in historic Charleston, S.C., The Citadel offers undergraduate and graduate degrees in the humanities, business, math, science, engineering and education.

With an enrollment of 2,000 men and women, the South Carolina Corps of Cadets is the nation's largest military college program outside the service academies. All cadets are educated within a classic military system and about 30 percent of graduating seniors each year earn military commissions. Academic programs are complemented by a strong commitment to service and emphatic support of an honor code that calls upon a cadet not to lie, cheat or steal or tolerate those who do. Since its founding in 1842, The Citadel's emphasis on character as well as intellect has produced generations of graduates who have served their nation, their professions and their communities with distinction.

As you prepare to cover the Democratic presidential debate on July 23 at The Citadel, don't forget we are here to help you with faculty experts, story ideas and general questions you may have about us. Information about us and the debate is available on our web site at www.citadel.edu. You can also email us at pao@citadel.edu or call us:

Patricia McArver—Vice president for communications
843-953-6965 office
843-557-7335 cell

Charlene Gunnells— Media relations coordinator
843-953-2155 office
843-475-0596 cell

Jennifer Wallace—Public information officer
843-953-7842 office
843-817-2048 cell