These core values that set a Citadel education apart are just as relevant today as when the college was founded more than 160 years ago.

A Citadel education extends beyond academics to the development of the mind, body and spirit within a military environment. This attention to the whole person instills within students a sense that character counts and that true success comes from effort, attitude and teamwork.